Integrous flies the flag in new technology standard

We are proud to announce that Integrous is one of only six businesses to be certified in the latest quality standard from Accredited UK. The new standard recognises the best ICT Consultancy firms in the industry. Achievement of this prestigious accreditation means that Integrous has been independently recognised as providing an efficient, honest and reliable service.

The Accredited UK standard is an independent quality mark that promotes trust in IT and helps suppliers prove their excellence. It proves to potential IT purchasers that companies holding the mark operate with appropriately skilled people, clearly defined processes, and that the company has a track record of meeting customers' expectations. Integrous CEO Qasim Majid feels that Accredited UK will give his business the edge over competitors: "When you are competing with other technology or consultancy suppliers, it is vital to be able to prove that you are better than the rest. By completing Accredited UK certification, we can show that we operate to the very highest standards." Qasim also feels that Accredited UK has improved the company internally: "Basically, Accredited UK has formalised what we do. As your business grows, many practices are informal or stored in people's heads. Now we have formalised all of this so that we have accountable business processes. As times get tougher for businesses, this will make us more resilient."

The Accredited UK Assessor said: "The certification has ensured that Integrous offers impartial and objective advice. They provide strategic support that enables clients to align their use of IT with their business vision. In addition, their tactical support identifies opportunities that will give clients genuine advantage and improved performance."
